Maid Brigade, Inc. Announces
“Franchisee of the Year” and “Outstanding New Franchisee” Winners

ATLANTA—John and Robin Roberts of Maid Brigade in Nashville, Tenn., were honored with Maid Brigade’s “Franchisee of the Year” award during the maid service’s annual convention on July 16 in Denver, Colo. David Bridges of Maid Brigade in Allentown, Pa., was also presented with the “Outstanding New Franchisee” award, which recognizes his ongoing achievements, including the highest sales numbers during the first 52 weeks of operation as compared to other new franchisees starting during the same period.

“We’re proud to honor our model franchisees for their significant contributions to the Maid Brigade brand,” says Bart Puett, President of Maid Brigade. “These awards recognize those individuals that have shown an ongoing dedication to providing quality service to their customers and have demonstrated proven increases in customers, sales, and growth within their local communities. The award winners have also been key in making Maid Brigade a stronger force within the house cleaning services marketplace.”

Opening its doors in April 2006, the Roberts’ Maid Brigade franchise has grown dramatically reflecting a strong and growing base of loyal and appreciative customers. Alongside their impressive pattern of success, the Roberts also serve on the Maid Brigade Franchise Advocacy Council and Ad Council, and have helped develop Maid Brigade internal marketing, operations and financial reports. Because of their achievements, this “Franchisee of the Year” has been awarded a plaque and award package by Maid Brigade valued at $1,200.

Bridges opened his Pennsylvania Maid Brigade franchise in December 2009. In 2010, total sales for his first 52 weeks in operation were upwards of $150,000 and the office has already established a vast customer base. . . Bridges was also awarded a plaque and awards package by Maid Brigade valued at $1,200 for his achievements as “Outstanding New Franchisee.”
